A note from the Superintendent

We have been busy on the course during these winter months. In January, we cleaned up debris from the creek banks that we could not get with the backhoe, cut down and cleaned up some big trees, ground down the stumps on the course, sprayed pre-emerge, edged all the sprinkler heads, and have been working on our equipment to have them all ready for the growing season. We also built and installed a new sand bottle holder and placed it at the #10 tee box. If you need to exchange your bottle at the turn for a full one, now you can.

This month, we have more winter projects to complete. We will be painting all of the tee markers. We will also be continuing to grind off the stumps on the course and repairing the holes. We have some more trees to take down and will also be pruning some trees as needed. We will be making some finishing touches to the new ladies tees to prepare them for sod in March. We will also be preparing the area to the right of #4 green for new sod after grinding down the stumps from the oak trees we removed a few years ago.

These are just a few of the tasks we get accomplished in the cold weather. We are continually striving to make the Brickyard the best golf course in the State!!

See you on the course,

Briane Faletto, GCS

January Golf Tip

With spring coming up and the weather getting warmer, its time to tune up your game! Here are a few tips to help you get ready to jump into the 2017 season:

1. Check your equipment:

Do you need new grips? Often, because we don't play as much during the winter, we don't realize that our grips are so worn down. Make sure that they are ready for the spring season. Do you have the right loft driver and the right set of clubs to maximize your game? If you are thinking about making changes to your clubs, this is the time to do it. Give yourself plenty of time to get used to your new equipment before the spring really ramps up.

2. Practice first with short swings, then move up to full swings:

Start with putting to establish your rhythm and tempo. Chipping and pitching also require a lot of feel and tempo which makes them another great place to start your practice. Think of these shots as a miniature full swing, making for a smoother transition to the correct full swing. Once you move on to your full swing, make sure your grip, posture, and setup are correct. These three areas are essential to a correct swing and consistent results.

3. Set realistic expectations for the course:

The first few rounds of the year will be a little rusty, and that is okay! Don't get frustrated on the golf course. During your round, take a few notes on things that you need to practice and areas that you are struggling in. Remember to practice all aspects of your game. Spend about 25% of your time on full swings and 75% on short game. And most of all, have fun!

“Color Blind” by Colby Marshall

Dr. Jenna Ramey’s brain has a rare perceptual quirk that punctuates her experiences with flashes of color. They are hard to explain, but she can understand and interpret them enough to help her read people and situations in ways others cannot. As an FBI forensic psychiatrist, she used it to catch criminals. Years ago, she used it to save her own family from her charming, sociopathic mother.

Now, the FBI has detained a mass murderer and needs Jenna’s help. She learns that he holds the power to harm more innocents and is obsessed with gaining power over Jenna. With his partner still on the loose, Jenna’s unique mind may be all that can prevent a terrifying reality.

Colby Marshall herself will be joining the book club meeting!
